CONCLUSION

Finally ,I have reached the concluding part of my project work and it has been a healthy and fruitful experiences for me. This project may be the stepping stone for me as a student to develop system apps and to keep on continuing and improve my skills in application development ,be it for any environment to run at. Before I started this project, most of the concepts were not clear to me and they are just like looking at alphabets by an illiterate person. But, with the completion of this project, my concepts have improved a lot. My confidence for building applications have been upped and will try my level best to build more and more projects like these in the near future. Hope this project will be a successful as for the part of satisfying user needs and there positive response will even boost up my confidence more.
